

XR45 "Mag-Clip" Loading Procedure.

Customers may find the "Mag-Clip" to be problematic to operate. Actually with the right technique and a little practice, loading rounds into the mag-clip becomes very easy. Here is what we have found to be the best method!

Grip the mag in your fist with the back facing away from you. The base of the mag is on the inner side of my pinky finger that I have curled in a bit more to give myself something firm to push against.

Insert the first round into the mag-clip as you would normally do.

XR45 "Mag-Clip" Loading Procedure.

Customers may find the "Mag-Clip" to be problematic to operate. Actually with the right technique and a little practice, loading rounds into the mag-clip becomes very easy. Here is what we have found to be the best method!

Use your "top" thumb to both compress the top round in the magazine, and gently slide the round towards the back of the mag, lining it up with the mag clip.

You can also use the round you are inserting to aid in pushing the previous round down. After some practice you will get the feel for this.

XR45 "Mag-Clip" Loading Procedure.

Customers may find the "Mag-Clip" to be problematic to operate. Actually with the right technique and a little practice, loading rounds into the mag-clip becomes very easy. Here is what we have found to be the best method!

Continue putting downward pressure on the lower round with the new round as it is inserted into the mag. The lower round will level out as the new round is pushed completely in.

Holding your fist, that is gripping the mag, tightly against your chest or body works best. Resting your fist on a bench works well too!